

 JONATHAN LEEMING
SPEAKER • AUTHOR • CONSERVATIONIST

The Friendly Spider Who Loved To Dance

www.scorpions.co.za

Once upon a time, there was a shy spider named Toby who loved to dance. He would dance all day long in his web, twirling and spinning and leaping in the air. But Toby was also very shy, and he was afraid to dance in front of other spiders.

One day, Toby was dancing in his web when he saw a group of other spiders watching him. He was so embarrassed that he quickly hid in his web. The other spiders laughed and called him names, and Toby was even more afraid to dance.

After that, Toby stopped dancing altogether. He would just sit in his web and be sad. One day, a wise old spider came to visit Toby.

“Why are you so sad?” the wise old spider asked.

“I’m sad because I love to dance,” Toby said, “but I’m too shy to dance in front of other spiders.”

“There’s nothing wrong with being shy,” the wise old spider said. “But don’t let your shyness stop you from doing the things you love. If you want to dance, then you should dance.”

Toby thought about what the wise old spider said. He knew that the wise old spider was right. He couldn’t let his shyness stop him from doing the things he loved.

The next day, Toby went back to dancing in his web. He was still a little bit shy, but he was determined to dance. He danced and danced, and he forgot all about being shy.

The other spiders saw Toby dancing, and they were amazed. They had never seen a spider dance like Toby before. They all started to clap and cheer, and Toby was so happy.

Toby danced and danced, and he didn't stop until he was exhausted. He had never felt so happy and free. He knew that he would never let his shyness stop him from dancing again.

Toby continued to dance every day, and he became known as the best dancer in the spider world. He even started to teach other spiders how to dance. Toby was no longer shy, and he was proud of who he was. He knew that he could do anything he set his mind to, as long as he didn't let his shyness hold him back.

One day, Toby was invited to dance at a big spider ball. He was nervous, but he knew that he had to do it. He danced his heart out, and the other spiders loved it. Toby had a great time, and he knew that he would never forget this night.

Toby continued to dance and teach other spiders how to dance. He spread the joy of dance to everyone he met, and he made the world a happier place.

